

Plié Shelving System by FROM INDUSTRIAL DESIGN

Plié, in classical ballet, is a specific movement, designed to give strength and flexibility to the entire body while helping the dancer acquire perfect posture. This is what the shelving system design by From Industrial Design is all about: stability and strength without losing elegance. Such combination is possible thanks to the way it was thought: using the least amount of material possible and folding it to create a light weight yet very robust structure. Its simplicity and fine character makes it possible to be used in multiple ways and contexts. It has only two components - flanks and shelves - which makes it very easy to assemble.
